*Sample reflection based on the book Brian's Hunt by Gary Paulsen.

I'd like to know what Brian was thinking when he couldn't find any of his friends in the village. He was probably thinking that he was very confused! He had no idea where his friends were, and he had no idea where to look for them. According to the text, he was very worried. Should he call the police? Should he just look around the village? I'm sure he had no idea what to do.
